Release FBI Data In Clinton Case

Is In Line With Recent Supreme Court Decision

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The government Wednesday surrendered a document from its long protected FBI files in the mass contempt trial of 16 defendants in the Clinton segregation case.

It was a signed statement. However, the government did not hand over to the defense an FBI agent's written summary of his conversation with the witness who signed it. The so-called "raw files" consist of such summaries by FBI agents, and these, in this case, were given to U.S. District Judge Robert L. Taylor.

The 19-man staff of defense lawyers crouched forward as U.S. Dist. Atty. John C. Crawford Jr., with a dramatic show of reluctance, cautiously fingered the FBI data—and finally released it to the defense.

The incident came after J. Benjamin Simmons of Washington, D.C., attorney for White Citizens Council leader Frederick John Kasper, cried out to the court: "We should have it (the secret FBI data) now so we can prepare our case and not be forced to wait until we have been sandbagged."

Federal Judge Robert L. Taylor directed the surrender of the FBI document in line with a recent Supreme Court decision that the defendants in a criminal case are entitled under certain circumstances to examine long-sacrosanct FBI "raw files" to prepare their defense.

Taylor ruled that he would ask the government to disclose such data in cases where a witness in the current trial has made a report to the FBI and where that report might be used to "impeach" the witness' accuracy. In this instance, the FBI data was a statement from Robert G. Cossano of Norris, Tenn., chairman of the Anderson County (Clinton) School Board which agreed last fall under federal mandate to integrate white and Negro students in its previously all-white high school.

Causes Little Stir
The surrender of the document—contents of which was not disclosed before court recessed for the day—caused little apparent stir among the defense lawyers after they received it.

Skelton's Son, Ill With Leukemia, On World Tour

STOCKHOLM, Sweden. (AP)—Comedian Red Skelton flew into Stockholm Wednesday on his global tour to show the world to his 9-year-old son, Richard, suffering from leukemia.

He said Richard, a thin red-haired boy, had told him: "I think more people should tell their children they shall die so their parents should be nice to them."

Stockholm is the second leg of the Skelton family's scheduled 3½ month tour "to show Richard the world he has been learning about at school."

Copenhagen was the first stop in Europe. Skelton and his family, including his wife Georgia, his 10-year-old daughter Valentina, and Richard, expect to stay in Sweden three or four days. Next stops are Denmark, where they plan to see a leukemia expert, West Germany and Britain.

Stratton Signs Bill To Regulate Lobbying

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Gov. Stratton Wednesday signed bills providing for regulation of lobbyists, keeping election polls open an extra hour to 6 p.m. and raising the state auditor's bond from $50,000 to $500,000.

The lobby bill, sponsored by Rep. Paul Powell (D-Vienne), was chosen by the Legislature over a tougher one proposed by Sen. Egbert Groen (R-Pekin).

The Powell measure requires lobbyists to register so they may be identified in a pamphlet circulated among the lawmakers. A $5 registration fee will be charged.

It forbids lobbying on a continuing payment basis—or a promise of compensation only if a particular bill passes or fails. Penalty for violating the law's provisions is a fine up to $200.

The Groen proposal, which died in the House, was criticized by some legislators as being too strict, particularly in the matter of accounting for any money paid to influence legislation.

Stratton vetoed legislation to allow county boards to set a curfew for youngsters under 18 and another bill which called for long holiday weekends.

The holiday measure provided for the observance of Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays, Memorial Day, Fourth of July, Columbus Day and Veterans Day on the nearest Monday when they fell on any day other than Monday.

Stratton said it would result in disruption of banking, commercial and agricultural transactions. He also said it wasn't fitting for Illinois as the "Land of Lincoln" to take the lead in tampering "with these traditions which honor our great national heroes and events."

In vetoing the curfew bill, the governor said the primary reason was that it was unconstitutional. (Continued on Page Seven)

Floods In Kansas Force Scores From Homes

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Swift, heavy rains in eastern Kansas Wednesday sent flash floods surging down creeks and rivers, forcing scores of persons to leave their homes.

In most places the waters receded quickly and first Weather Bureau predictions of unusually high water in the Topeka River district were revised downward.

Worst hit were low-lying sections of Topeka and the small farming community of Richland, 18 miles south of here. Mrs. Georgia Neice Clark Gray, former United States treasurer, whose own home at Richland was in the flooded area, said between 175 and 200 residents were forced to leave their homes during the morning as the overflowing Wakarusa River and its tributary Camp Creek sent up to five feet of water through the town.

No casualties were reported in any area. A freak cloudburst in the Kansas River Valley near Abilene, 80 miles west of here, dumped an estimated 10 inches of rain on a single farm and sent a wall of water rushing across U.S. Highway 40 so suddenly it swept five passing cars into a ditch. All occupants escaped injury.

In Topeka, the flooding was from Shunganunga Creek, which flows into the Kansas River from the south. Soldier Creek which flows through North Topeka, was rising but not expected to flood.

The department had sought, through use of production control measures and a soil bank land reclamation program, to cut production so that outlets might be provided for surpluses of such crops as wheat, corn, cotton, rice, tobacco and the like.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eight Supreme Court justices worked throughout Wednesday on the Girard case, but gave no indication as to when their decision may be announced.

The justices worked in their chambers as they considered—and possibly began writing—their views on the appeal of G. William S. Girard, of Ottawa, Ill., who is seeking to avoid trial by a Japanese civil court for killing a Japanese woman.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Illinois' crop outlook is down sharply from last year, with the prospective corn production estimated at 430 million bushels, the State-Federal Agriculture Department says. (Continued on Page Seven)

Jet, Abandoned By Pilot, Crashes In Open Space

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—"Did I kill anybody?"

That was the first question asked by an injured pilot when he regained consciousness after he bailed out of his jet bomber Tuesday night over a thickly populated section of this Los Angeles suburb.

"Oh, thank God," said Navy Cmdr. P. C. Durup, 36, from his hospital bed when told the pilotless A-4 Skyhawk had skidded over houses and apartments before crashing in the only open space for miles around.

The plane slammed into a vacant 50-foot lot and exploded. Flaming wreckage showered on adjacent homes, but no one was injured.

Durup had taken off on a routine flight from the Douglas Aircraft plant in nearby El Segundo. He said he was heading back at 25,000 feet after checking out the plane over the ocean when the controls failed.

He rode the plane down to 10,000 feet before hitting the election booth and bailing out. Durup, who landed in nearby foothills, suffered a dislocated hip, fractured arm and shock.

Assign Ousted Red Leaders To New Jobs

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio said Wednesday night ex-premier Georgi Malenkov has been made manager of a hydroelectric plant in East Kazakhstan and Soviet leaders deposed with him last week have been assigned to unspecified other work.

None of the ousted leaders is being persecuted, the broadcast said, for "anti-party activities" that led to their removal from party and government posts.

The broadcast did not give the nature of the new assignments for V. M. Molotov, Lazar Kaganovich and Dmitri Shepilov. It said merely they had been given other work.

Malenkov's new post is about 1,800 miles from Moscow and 200 miles from Red China.

Ust Kamenogorsk, where Malenkov has been assigned, is a city in the East Kazakhstan region of the Kazakh republic in remote Central Asia.

Kazakhstan served as a place of exile in Stalin's era. His most bitter opponent, Leon Trotsky, spent some time there after he was thrown out of the Central committee of the Soviet Communist party.

Ust Kamenogorsk is a place where thousands of political prisoners and other forced laborers were put to work building the dam and electric plant after World War II.

The Moscow broadcast announcing the new assignments was in reply to what it called Western "propaganda fabrications" about the fate of the ousted leaders.

A Moscow radio commentator, who was not identified by name, said some Western commentators are spreading rumors that Malenkov, Molotov and Kaganovich are in prison.

"We declare that there is no truth whatsoever in this," the Moscow broadcast said.

It added that Malenkov's new job puts him at the head of one (Continued on Page Seven)

Plane Crash In Alaska Kills Six

ANCHORAGE, Alaska. (AP)—A two engine plane crashed on take off from King Salmon Airport on Bristol Bay Wednesday, killing at least six persons including members of a prominent Washington state fishing family.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration office here had few details of the crash other than the plane, a Lockheed Lodestar, nosed over, reaching an altitude of about 500 feet, crashed to the ground and burned.

At Seattle, family friends identified those on the plane as: O. R. Vose, about 60, New York City insurance man with wide business interests.

Mrs. H. B. Friele, about 55, Bellevue, Wash., whose husband is a widely known cannery operator and Pacific Northwest representative for the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., operator of A&P stores.

Mrs. Harold B. Friele, daughter in law of Mrs. H. B. Friele, Harold Friele is assistant superintendent of the Nakeen, Alaska, cannery.

The others aboard, the Seattle source said, were the pilot, copilot and a sixth person, not immediately identified.

Sen. Russell Hopeful After Visit To Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southern foes of the civil rights bill were reported Wednesday to be looking to the Eisenhower administration for a compromise offer which might soften the terms of the measure.

Their hopes appeared to be aroused by a report from Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) that President Eisenhower's "mind is not closed to amendments which would clarify the bill."

Russell, leader of the Southern opposition, spent about 50 minutes with the President Wednesday. He said he had asked for the appointment to discuss the bill with particular reference to some provisions he regards as "very extreme."

Eisenhower was understood to have made no commitments and to have mentioned no specific compromise proposals. Nevertheless, Russell was obviously hopeful that some administration move might be forthcoming.

Meanwhile, the Senate went through the third day of its debate on a motion to bring the bill to the floor.

Dirksen Defends Bill
Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.), a longtime champion of civil rights legislation, made a section-by-section defense of the bill.

He said the government calls on Negroes to pay taxes and sacrifice their lives as soldiers, and that it should safeguard their rights as American citizens.

Dirksen scoffed at the opposition's talk about the use of "force, troops and bayonets" under the authority of the bill. He said the measure simply points a way in which the country "can go forward, and we should do so."

Johnson Opposes
Before the Senate recessed for the day at 7:21 p.m., Sen. Olin Johnston (D-Me.) launched into a speech declaring the bill would set back race relations in the South 100 years. It would, he predicted, result in the shedding of blood, which would be "on the hands of every member here who votes to pass this legislation."

In the course of private compromise talk on Capitol Hill it was pointed out that the administration could propose changes in the language of the bill passed by the House June 18. It was said the changes might be proposed (Continued on Page Seven)

Daignault was furious, especially after his wife went off for a weekend with her lover.

In a last-ditch effort to patch things up, the American urged his wife to go to the United States with him and start life over. At first she agreed and he went to the American Embassy to get formalities started.

That evening—April 26, 1956—he came home with a dozen red roses, got the dinner started and set the table. He carefully arranged the roses as a centerpiece. But Monique was out having cocktails with her lover.

When she came home, Daignault told her what he had done at the Embassy.

"Don't bother for me," she allegedly replied. "I am not going with you. My lover is coming over to tell you why."

When the lover showed up, the veteran threw him out and locked the door.

Once more Daignault begged Monique to go to America with him.

"Never," she answered. The husband shouted, "I will kill you. You will never belong to another."

Monique screamed her last words: "I have never loved you. I will never love you."

The lover, who was not named, had listened to the argument. He broke down the door and found Monique dead with 26 stab wounds all over her body.

Daignault went to the police and confessed.

Ike's Team Breaks Up

History indicates plainly that as a president's time in office runs on, changes in his cabinet become more and more common.

When a new president takes over, his prestige is high. His leverage upon men in almost every walk of life is great. Most of the big names he calls upon to serve him respond willingly.

For a good many men who do respond, the tour of duty in government may put a kind of cap on their careers. It can mean a fresh challenge, a novelty, a chance to enlist in a cause.

To some, the lure of this new opportunity is enduring and they stay on as long as does the president who summoned them. But for others, the excitement may wane, or the strain of conflict at high policy levels grow too great, or newer, brighter opportunities beckon.

Up until recently former Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay was the biggest name lost by President Eisenhower. But now he is losing his Treasury secretary, George Humphrey, the conservative rock of his cabinet, and it is rumored Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson and others may follow.

One's view of their service naturally depends in good measure on one's own politics. But few would deny that these men have served Mr. Eisenhower and their country faithfully. Nor can they be begrudged the chance to seek out a quieter course of life, if that is what they want.

Seldom are cabinet replacements quite the equal of their predecessors in "name" stature, though now and then they may match or surpass them in ability.

When this is the case, they may in time come to have as much or more influence on top policy-making as did the original cabinet officers.

When the successors do not measure as high, however, the usual effect is to confer greater influence on others, either in the cabinet or in the president's intimate White House circle, who have the advantage of seniority in service and familiarity with the chief executive's personality and working ways.

Some observers say this is now happening in Mr. Eisenhower's case. In other words, they think the departure of Humphrey and possibly others will signal a shift of influence to men on the White House staff, men of more liberal leaning than certain of the cabinet stand-outs.

This judgment could be premature. But at least it can be said that the time has come to look for such shifts of weight and temper in the President's managing crew. For clearly the old 1953 team is breaking up.

End Short, Inactive Life of U.S. Flood Insurance Agency

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Federal Flood Indemnity Administration will pass out of existence in July—the shortest-lived government agency in history. It never wrote a policy.

FFIA was authorized on the last day of the session of Congress, without a record vote. It was killed in the House of Representatives 10 months later by the simple process of denying it money with which to operate.

The vote was 58 Republicans and 128 Democrats for a total of 186 votes in favor of keeping the outfit going, to 128 Republicans and 90 Democrats for a total of 218 against it.

What happened to bring about this strange reversal of congressional opinion is the cause for much political speculation. It's a good case history on why things happen the way they do in Washington, defying all rhyme and reason.

The Big Floods which brought on the demand for flood insurance came after the disastrous hurricane summer of 1955. There were no serious floods in 1956. But they were still cleaning up the debris in 1956. And the memory of what had hit the eastern seaboard from North Carolina to New England made flood insurance a good political talking point for the '56 elections.

Representatives Edward Boland (D-Mass.), Frank Thompson Jr. (D-N.J.), Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) and Graham Barden (D-N.C.), whose states had all been hit hard in '55, led the fight for flood insurance.

In '56, They put it over in spite of the opposition from Rep. Brent Spence (D-Ky.), chairman of Banking and Currency Committee. It breezed through the Senate.

Financed in part by presidential emergency funds, a small staff of about 30 experts under former Deputy Housing Administrator Frank J. Melstrel was set up to work out plans.

They were all ready with simple policies, rates and a scheme for selling the insurance through 5,000 private indemnity companies and their 150,000 agencies, shortly after Congress came back to town. They hoped to be in business by June.

They asked for 100 million dollars to start operations. When the economy wove hit, they cut it to 50 million. In the end they said they could get started for 14 million.

But a House Appropriations subcommittee still held back Rep. Albert Thomas (D-Tex.), chairman of the group, thought it would become a raid on treasury. Though FFIA wanted only 14 million dollars to start operating, for that amount of money they could write five billion dollars' worth of flood insurance. And maybe they would obligate the treasury for damage appropriations for that amount, year after year.

When the new spring floods hit Texas, Oklahoma and parts of Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri and Kansas earlier, it was thought this would create new pressure for flood insurance. To everyone's surprise, it didn't.

Much of the damage was to river bottom land which could not be insured. City property got off relatively light in most places. In this respect it differed from the more populous east.

In the second place, Texas has been going through a series of fly-by-night insurance scandals. This made many people leary of insurance. Also, there had been no insurance offered for drought relief, so people weren't conditioned for flood insurance. Direct relief was what they were looking for.

Finally, There was a good demonstration that the best kind of flood insurance was flood prevention through dams and reservoirs to catch the runoff water and hold back floods.

Army Engineers have a 1.5-billion-dollar flood-prevention program for the six-state southwestern area. It has 400 million dollars' worth of projects completed, 600 million more under construction and 500 million authorized but not yet started.

The completed works are estimated to have prevented 142 million dollars' additional damage. The authorized works have prevented another 50 million dollars' damage.

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) made a speech about the Texas part of this program. It was the tipoff. It revealed that in this part of the country, a dam in the hand was worth a whole flock of flood insurance in the bushes.

That's why Federal Flood Indemnity Administration got the congressional ax and is being buried.

But if a new series of floods comes along this summer and they want to revive FFIA, the plans are all ready.

Thinking It Over—

By Robert L. Diefenbacher, D.D. (Written for NEA Service)

A block of ice can be sculptured into a beautiful image which holds its shape indefinitely under the right conditions of temperature and humidity. Yet in the normal temperatures in which we live the ice melts and the form of the image disappears.

The ice appears solid. It looks permanent in its form. It feels as hard as any other material. It gives the impression of being indestructible. Yet it can completely disappear as fluid or vapor in a short time.

Icy hearts which are indifferent toward other people are just as impermanent. They, too, can be melted by the warmth of God and friendship. The process takes a little longer if the icy heart is housed in a cold person—in a being who closes the door on love.

We can all make the world more friendly if we work with God to melt the frigid hearts of humanity.

Steam whistles were invented in 1833 because a farmer couldn't hear the tin whistles then used on locomotives. In a collision, the farmer emerged safely. What angered him was that his wagon contained 80 dozen eggs and 50 pounds of butter which were smashed into an omelet.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD film—What does it take to achieve a film hit?

That's the problem that has always faced Hollywood, and now more than ever. Many of the top producers admit they are baffled by public tastes.

"You just can't tell what they are going for these days," one of them sighed recently.

Take "Spirit of St. Louis" as an example. Studios had been after Lindbergh's story ever since he flew the Atlantic. Finally, the Lone Eagle released the rights. Warners had enough faith in it to allow six million dollars to be sunk in production. The presence of James Stewart was believed to be box office insurance, since he is one of the three top money earning stars.

It was a fine picture and drew excellent reviews. But not enough business. Warner Brothers faces a heavy loss.

Second-guessing is Hollywood's favorite sport, and "Spirit" has been debated from here to the Sunset Strip. Here's how one veteran star analyzed it:

"They waited too long to make the picture. Your biggest market today is with the kids. A guy flying the Atlantic alone in a little putt-putt makes no impression on them. They know that jets can cross the ocean in a few hours today."

Perhaps the answer is in analyzing the successes. But even that can be a stumbling block. One of the biggest hits of 1956 is "Gunfight at O.K. Corral." Here is how one studio head commented on it to me:

"The picture is a collection of all the clichés in western pictures. The characters—Wyatt Earp and Doc Holliday—can be seen on television every night of the week. Yet it's a big hit. How do you figure it?"

You can't. You just go on making pictures and hope that somehow the great unknown—the movie audience—will be attracted to the theaters.

The World

Today

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The civil rights bill is loaded—in the sense that it goes far beyond just protecting the voting rights of Negroes—but it hardly comes under the head of "cunning."

Sen. Russell, Georgia Democrat and captain of the Senate Southern bloc trying to prevent Senate consideration of the bill, called it the "most cunningly devised and contrived piece of legislation I have ever seen."

This, knowingly or not, was a slap at the Justice Department. Atty. Gen. Brownell, at the Senate Judiciary Committee's open hearings last February, said the bill was put together by his Justice Department's lawyers.

Brownell frankly said this bill—backed by the Eisenhower administration—would go beyond protection of voting rights. For example, he said, he could step in under it to back up the Supreme Court's ban on public school segregation.

He didn't go into the many kinds of civil rights violations covered by this bill. He wasn't asked. Here are some other possibilities: segregation on buses, interference with witnesses or jurors where civil rights are concerned. There are plenty.

This is how he'd act: He'd ask a federal judge to order a stop to the violations. Disobedience would bring trial for contempt by the judge himself—not a jury trial—and jail if convicted.

In his indignation against this bill, Russell suggested that it be submitted to national vote. Only a handful of the people most affected by it—Southern Negroes—are eligible to vote.

What particularly irritated Russell was that the bill doesn't everywhere spell out precisely what it would do but amends other laws which are merely referred to in the bill by number.

This is not, however, unusual in legislation. In such cases it is assumed that the senators, before they vote, will take the trouble to look up the amended laws to find out what they're voting on.

The bill falls into four sections but only the last two are under fire so far. No. 1 would create a six-man commission to study civil rights problems; No. 2 would create a new civil rights division in the Justice Department.

The fight has been over Nos. 3 and 4.

No. 3 would amend on old 19th century law—covering a very broad field of civil rights violations—under which a person whose rights were violated could sue for damages or ask a judge for an injunction to stop the violation.

Under the amending bill the attorney general could step in, instead of leaving it up to the injured individual to act, and ask the court for an injunction.

No. 4 would authorize the attorney general to step in if—specifically—some individual's voting rights were violated.

Under Nos. 3 and 4 he'd ask for a court injunction. Anyone disobeying the court order could be tried for contempt by the judge himself—without jury trial—and be sent to jail.

The theory is that this is the fastest way to get action against civil rights violations: to prevent their happening or stop them while they are happening. By the same reasoning a jury trial is slow and would come after a violation.

There is nothing new in trial for contempt of court by a judge himself, without a jury. Brownell cited at least 28 laws under which that can be done in other fields.

Southerners insist there should be a jury trial. But, although during the weeks of the filibuster they will offer amendment upon amendment to soften this bill, their main purpose all the while, Russell has said, will be to kill the bill.

Russell argues on another point too not mentioned in the bill is an old law giving the President authority to call out troops to back up a court order against violations covered by that old 19th century law which this bill would amend.

If this bill is passed, amending the 19th century law, the old law providing for the calling out of troops would apply to the newly amended law. But Brownell replied sharply at the hearings when the subject of calling out troops was mentioned. He said the very suggestion that the President might call out troops in civil rights cases was disrespectful to President Eisenhower.

Southerners say they are not worried Eisenhower would call out the troops. They argue someone coming after—armed with the power this bill provides—might do so.

Contaminated Pork Infects

350,000 in U.S. Annually

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Written for NEA Service

Not long ago L. B. asked several questions in connection with the disease known as trichinosis.

First, she asks: "Is bacon treated or cured in any way before reaching the consumer to destroy trichinae?"

I believe the answer is that it usually is not treated in a manner which will always destroy all parasites, if any are present. Federal meat inspectors require that all meats containing pork which are eaten without further cooking shall be treated by heating, freezing or drying in order to kill trichinae. Of course, bacon is not eaten raw and trichinae, if present, are as a rule killed by complete cooking.

L. B. also wants to know whether she is correct in assuming smoking of pork does not destroy this parasite. She is correct. The parasites are destroyed only by satisfactory heating, freezing or drying and by a method of "gamma irradiation."

TRICHINOSIS is an important health problem. The disease is caused by a tiny animal parasite known as trichinella spiralis. It has been estimated that about 25 million inhabitants of the United States alone harbor the parasite. Each year about 350,000 persons acquire new infections.

Apparently most of those who become infected do not show any symptoms. Only about 16,000 persons each year are expected to take enough of the parasites into their systems to cause obvious trouble. Of those who do develop symptoms, about one in 20 may die.

The parasites usually enter the human body in contaminated pork or pork products. When live trichinae are swallowed in this manner they pass through the wall of the intestines and are carried to the muscles in various parts of the body. Whether symptoms will be produced depends on the number of parasites.

NAUSEA, vomiting and watery diarrhea are common symptoms. Sometimes abdominal pain is present. The worms develop in the intestines, and about the ninth or 10th day begin to invade the muscles.

Again, if they are present in large enough numbers, they may produce tenderness of the muscles, especially in the arms and legs. Sometimes a reddish rash occurs on the skin. Fever may be present. Puffiness and swelling of the face, especially around the eyes, is common.

IN MILD cases the symptoms may last for only 10 or 12 days. In severe ones they may persist for six or eight weeks. Improvements in methods of feeding hogs and in inspecting carcasses are important. Considerable work is being done on pork disposal or treatment of garbage eaten by hogs so that trichinae will be destroyed.

Pork and pork products should be thoroughly cooked before eating. This will destroy the trichinae if present. Freezing the meat at 5 degrees F. for 20 days also will kill the parasites.

Manners Make Friends

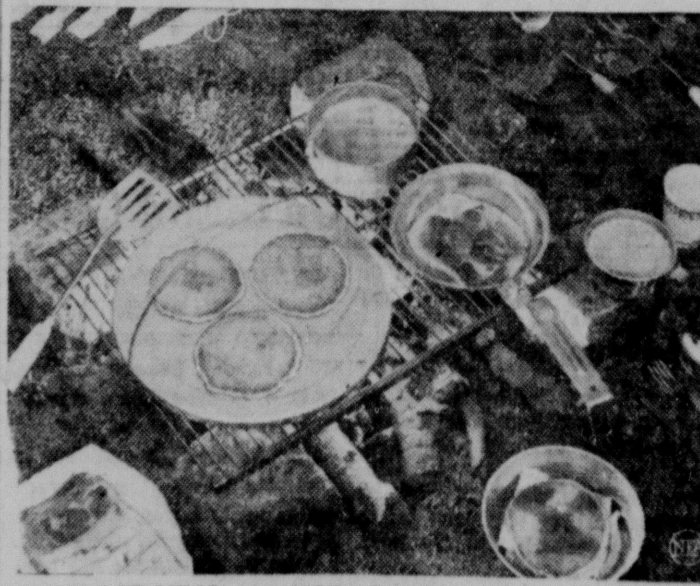

If you have to make a talk or even just say a few words, don't begin by saying what a poor speaker you are, or how frightened you are to be standing up before so many people. Just forget yourself and start to talk.

Pancakes Rule Supreme With Boy Scout Cooks

OUTDOOR MEAL prepared by Boy Scouts consist of pancakes and ham and cheese made into double-deck sandwiches.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
Cookouts and overnights are favorite activities of Boy Scouts because it helps them to earn merit badges and honors.

We learned that one of their favorite recipes for breakfast cookouts is ham and cheese pan cakes. Slices of Swiss cheese and boiled ham alternating between layers of golden brown pancakes are guaranteed to satisfy "man-sized" appetites. Plenty of hot maple or maple-blended syrup is a must.

Charles E. Beck of Lansing, Ill., father of two Scouts and Scout leader of a group of 12, gave us this information based on his experience.

"Part of camping," according to our expert, "is teaching these junior citizens how to pitch a tent, to build a campfire as well as to cook their own meals. The boys learn fast about using easy-to-carry foods with many uses. Pancake mix is a favorite."

Ham and Cheese Pan Saks (2 servings)
Pancakes: One cup milk, 1 egg, 1 cup pancake mix, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 2 slices boiled ham, 2 slices Swiss cheese, maple or maple-blended syrup.

For the pancakes, place milk, egg, pancake mix and melted but-

NEAR MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Here lives a man who can whip inflation by the only possible way. He doesn't buy much. He rarely spends in public. He lives by a personal standard above the changing dollar.

"This is no stunt with me," said Bert Garner, a tall, bent intellectual who at the age of 71 points out he can and does at times exist at the rate of 15 cents a day—or less.

He hand grinds corn and soybeans, puts in a little chocolate or powdered milk, and makes a meal of it and says he is satisfied.

Bert can still climb 25 to 30 miles a day through the Great Smoky Mountains. "I prefer simple ways," he says.

To understand Bert you have to know him a bit. He doesn't fit any pigeonhole you know. He never will. If he found out he did, he would change.

Bert has studied at a number of universities across the country. He worked in all kinds of wandering jobs. He spent about a dozen years with the U. S. immigration people.

He lives now all alone in a woodlark building of his choice. It is a two-room cabin he built 37 years ago. It is in the area where his ancestors arrived some 200 years ago—or nearly.

Bert is slender, white-haired, widely read, and cheerfully proud that his way of life isn't for the family man.

He has a major criticism of civilization as most of us know about it—and, on occasion, complain about it.

"They're in a rat race, trying to keep up with the Joneses. Sometimes I feel that it is a good thing some people work so hard. Our education system doesn't prepare people for the right kind of leisure. You can work, or you can live. I like to live."

Bert himself, who is interested in such momentous questions as the distribution of snakes in the 50-acre wilderness in which he built his cabin, also knows that to a disciple of nature and considered indolence there can be no spare time.

The woodchuck is his neighbor. At the moment seven skunks live under and out of his cabin.

"We get along fine," he said. "They come out at the whippoorwill's dusk, and go back at the whippoorwill's dawn. I tell people I live in Paradise. I do."

Bert has worked in New York and Philadelphia, studied on the West Coast. But either a greatness or weakness in his being has always brought him home to his woodlark cabin near the hills of his birth. He figures he has held a job only 20 of his 71 years, and most of those 20 years were wasted.

In an era of creeping inflation the area of his desire enlarges none. The berries along the mountain trail red his palate and his path.

Communication

Dear Editor,
Not one, not two, not three, not four, but five young ones perched on the Edward Wheeler's bird bath at 8:45 p.m. on Sunday night in full view of the South Main street populace. The fifth one splashed away in the freshly poured water, whilst the four waited their turn. When the last one's turn came, one Siamese cat, who was also a witness to the unusual spectacle, could wait no longer and took one plunge at the bath, missing, but sped in swift pursuit up the tree wherein the towels were safely lodged.

It was really a most interesting sight, for the young ones looked just like tawny down chicks, most inviting to see.

Cordially,
Margaret Wheeler,

Importance Main Feeling

'Going Steady' Gives Girl

Want to know why teen-age girls are so set on going steady? One of my teen-age readers has, I believe, given the main reason in a few well-chosen words.

She says: "What do teen-agers get out of going steady, especially the girls? Well, it's very simple. We get attention and admiration and the knowledge that someone thinks we are pretty nice."

No matter how many surveys adults make or how many theories they advance to explain "going steady" they will never get any nearer to the heart of the matter.

At an age when parents find their children hard to understand and teen-agers are convinced their parents have forgotten what it is like to be young, there is a great need for the teen-ager to feel admired and understood and important.

FEELS IMPORTANT
If a girl can wear some symbol showing she has a steady boy friend, she feels important.

If this boy telephones her every night, slips her notes at school, takes her to a dance or movie every weekend, the girl gets enough attention to make her feel she really is "pretty nice."

No wonder parents are fighting a losing battle against this "going steady" craze that has swept the country.

The need to feel admired and appreciated is so important to teen-agers that once they have discovered an easy way to achieve that feeling they aren't going to give it up without a fight.

The pity is that the way they have found is too easy. It lets them coast along in a dream world in which, if they always manage to have a steady, they are completely satisfied with themselves.

But how can you make them see that getting the slavish attention of one person isn't much of a goal and that it's just an easy way of gaining a feeling of importance?

Check Speedometers On 67 Near City

State Police Officers Heyer, in uniform, and Walter, both from district nine, were two of the three officers checking speedometers for the public on State Route 67 from 10 o'clock Wednesday morning until one in the afternoon. Cars headed north were slowed down by one officer and given the chance to drive past a designated radar station at 40 miles per hour. A short distance from the radar station Officers Heyer and Walter reported to the drivers how their cars registered. The service was state wide Wednesday with hundreds of Illinois and out-of-state motorists taking advantage of the test.

Plan Annual Allotment Of Duck Blind Sites In Two River Areas

Ducks noisily raising a family in the cool, wet plains of Manitoba are undoubtedly not aware that even in hot July and August duck hunters of Illinois are making plans to get them.

Director Glen D. Palmer of the Illinois Department of Conservation Wednesday announced that hunters planning to shoot on waterfowl management areas along the Mississippi and lower Illinois rivers this coming season will be privileged to draw for blind sites on nine areas.

Many hunters in this area will be interested in the order. In a move to provide equal hunting rights for Illinois duck hunters, the department selected nine major areas on which to initiate a drawing procedure for allocation of blind sites on an annual basis.

Calhoun, Quincy Points
The areas are: 1. Calhoun Point—Pool 26; Stump lake—Pool 26; 3. Illinois river—Pool 26 (along Calhoun refuge); 4. Godar-Diamond island—Pool 26; 5. Batchtown—Pool 25; 6. Batchtown (Mississippi river along refuge) Pool 25; 7. Quincy Bay—Pool 21; 8. Oquawka—Pool 18; 9. Area north of Sparland on Illinois river.

Check stations will be in operation at Calhoun Point, Stump lake, Godar - Diamond island, Batchtown, Quincy Bay and Oquawka. Other areas throughout the 30,000 acres of federal lands below Rick Island, Starved Rock, Des Plaines river and Grass lake will be operated under a program similar to that in effect last year, excepting that all blind sites will be marked with numbered posts placed by the department.

800 Sites Available
Approximately 800 blind sites will be available on the nine areas set aside for drawing. Hunters who wish to participate in the drawing should make application by postcard or letter to the Department of Conservation, State Office Building, Springfield, Ill., between now and Aug. 10, 1957.

The application must be made by a party of two or three hunters who intend to construct and use the blind throughout the coming season. The application should include the names and addresses of all members of this party, name of the area desired, plus a second choice.

One To Each Party
Only one application is permitted by each party. No individual will be permitted to have his name on more than one application.

The drawing will be held in the Springfield office immediately after Aug. 10, and applicants need not be present for drawing. Successful parties will be notified by mail shortly thereafter and will have three weeks in which to notify department of acceptance or rejection of blind sites. Maps locating blind sites will accompany notification. Blinds must be built by Oct. 1, except for final brushing.

Rejected blind sites will be reallocated by a second drawing.

Centennial News From Ashland

ASHLAND — Patsy Montana, America's No. 1 cowgirl will co-star with Homer and Jethro, comedy team and WLS stars, will furnish the entertainment on Agriculture day at the Ashland Centennial on Wednesday, July 17 at 2 and 8 p.m., according to Lynn Field, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Reggie Cross, master of ceremonies comedian and recognized as one of America's greatest harmonica players, will perform on Monday and Tuesday, July 15 and 16. Cross appeared on the WLS National Barn dance for years with an act known as the Hoosier Sod-Busters. Reggie has worked all the top network shows, both in radio and television. Until recently he was master and harmonica player on Midwest Hay-Ride, a show that originates from WLW in Cincinnati, Ohio. He has recorded with Gene Autrey, Bob Atcher and Rex Allen.

The big parade will be July 21. A parade of enthusiastic and energetic Bible school pupils participated in a downtown section last Saturday night at 7 p.m. It was a signal of the beginning of an all-out Bible school attendance drive by the Christian church. Entries in the procession included ponies, a pony wagon, clowns, cowboys, floats, cars and bicycles.

The contest called "The Bandwagon Summer Attendance Contest" is being sponsored by the Lookout magazine, the nation's largest Sunday school weekly.

Several thousand churches in the country have entered.

Sunday, July 7 was designated as "Primary Day" and the children of the school from the Cradle Roll through the third grade were "Stars" of the event and presented a short program at the conclusion of the Sunday school hour. The mothers and fathers of the children were presented with badges.

Two hundred and fifty ladies now belong to the Sisters of the Swiss. The Centennial quilt is still at Mary Kay Gardner's and anyone interested may go there and quilt on it. All Sisters are asked to go in at Hexter's store and pay their dime if they haven't done so.

Don't miss the airplane drop—a Wyler shockproof watch will be dropped from an airplane during Centennial week. Stop in at Anderson's Jewelry store and register, by signing your name to a slip of paper and putting it in the box. After the watch is dropped from the plane, a person will be chosen to pick up the watch. A name will be chosen from the names in the box and if you are lucky—you win a free watch.

The Centenary Community club and their families enjoyed a pot-luck supper Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Edwards at 6 o'clock.

Richard T. Coffey, who has been here on a 30-day furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Coffey, has returned to San Diego, Calif. to finish his active duty of two months.

M-Sgt. Stuart W. Jenkins of Lincoln, Nebr., A.F.B., left Monday for Springfield, Miss., to attend a school for several weeks. Rev. and Mrs. Steven J. Epler, Rev. Fred Fish, and Mr. and Mrs. Russel Lange of Grinnell, Ia., were Sunday evening guests of Rev. and Mrs. Jamie Morgan and Treel.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jacoby spent the weekend in Chicago with friends.

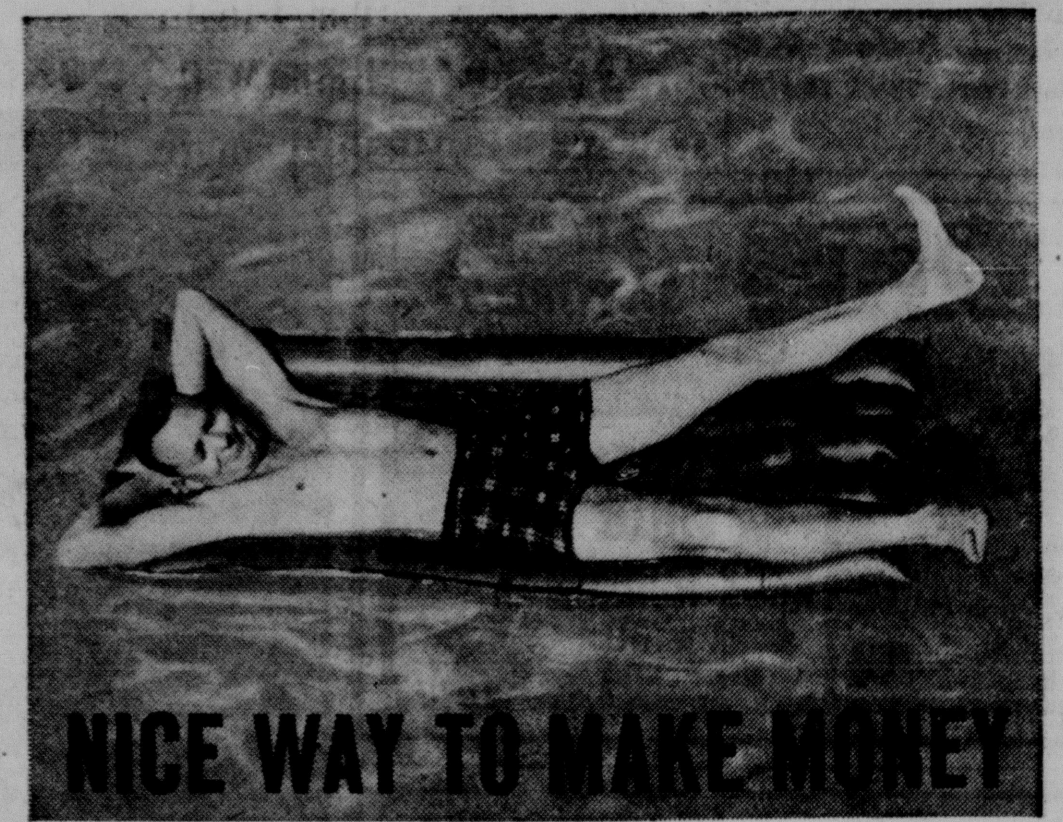

Louis L. Irvin, radarman seaman, U.S.N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee R. Irvin, Ashland, is serving aboard the destroyer USS Perry with Destroyer Squadron Eight in the Mediterranean. The Perry has been taking part in anti-submarine warfare exercises with units of the Spanish navy.

Dr. and Mrs. Welch of Colchester, Walter Orr of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, and the latter's daughter, Mrs. Clarence Summers, of this city, have returned to their respective homes, after a few days visit in Cuyoga Downs in St. Louis, Mo., attending horse races.

The first event of the Centennial celebration will be a community religious service to be held Sunday night, July 14, at 7 p.m. in the West Park.

G. B. Gordon, television newscaster of channel 20, WJCS, Springfield, will be the speaker. Special music is to be given by the choir of Zion Baptist church, Springfield.

Friends here will be glad to hear that Dr. Raymond D. Ranes has completed his internship at Jackson Memorial hospital in Miami, Fla., and will report for three years of active duty with the Air Force on July 23. He will be stationed at Maxwell Air Force base at Montgomery, Ala. This is a general practice hospital that serves the Air Force in the southeastern United States at the Caribbean area.

Wm. Cumby And Bride Will Live
In Springfield

NEW BERLIN—Wedding vows were exchanged at 9 a.m. Saturday, June 29, in Sacred Heart of Mary's Church of New Berlin, by Miss Norma Jean Hermes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hermes, New Berlin, and William Cumby, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Cumby, also of New Berlin. Rev. Charles J. Fanning received the double ring vows.

The bride wore a gown of imported French lace and airspun nylon tulle over white bridal satin. Scallops ringed the Sabrina neckline that dipped to a V at the back of the fitted bodice. Lace appliques were strewn over the full tulle skirt highlighted in front with twin panels of lace and featuring a cascade of crystal pleated tulle and scalloped lace ruffles down the back to form a chapel train. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a lace pillbox adorned with sequins and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Attending the couple were Minnie Hermes, sister of the bride, bridesmaid; Beverly Ludwig, flower girl; Edward Hergenrother, best man; Richard Meier, groomsman; Johnny Tamblin, ringbearer, and ushers Arch Simpson and Carl Hemberger. A reception was held at the bride's home.

The bride, a graduate of Community Unit 16 high school, New Berlin, is employed at Horace Mann Insurance Company, Springfield.

Mr. Cumby, also a graduate of Community Unit 16 high school, is employed in the Chevrolet garage, New Berlin.

Following a wedding trip to Michigan, the couple will reside at 301 East Allen street, Springfield.

WHEAT, RYE SHOW STRENGTH, FEED GRAIN'S, BEANS WEAK

BY WILLARD ROBERTSON CHICAGO, (U-P) — Wheat and rye futures showed strength on the Board of Trade Wednesday but feed grains and soybeans were weak.

Many traders remained out of the market and there also were evening up operations pending government's crop report, which was issued after the close of trading and was considered bearish by most trade authorities.

New style wheat closed 1/4 to 1/2 higher, corn 1 cent lower to 1/4 higher, oats unchanged to 1/4 lower, rye 3/4 higher to 1/2 lower, soybeans 1 cent lower to 1/4 higher and laid 15 to 25 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Some early selling in wheat was due to hedging and reports of generally good weather for harvesting. However, the market rebounded somewhat because of strength at Kansas City, and also on reports of heavy rainfall in the Toledo, Kan., area.

Fine growing weather and forecasts for more of the same in some of the critical areas, was a selling influence in corn, oats and soybeans. Beans still are being planted in some regions.

The rye market climbed sharply at times, influenced by rye strength at Winnipeg. Canadian sources fear rye crop damage. Canada is a big exporter of rye to the United States.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

BY ED MORSE

NEW YORK, (U-P) — The stock market came within striking distance of its all-time bull market high Wednesday as it reached another new peak for 1957.

Trading was the heaviest since June 10, the day of President Eisenhower's "upset stomach" as prices rallied after early irregularity.

The quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange added an estimated $1,860,000,000 based on the rise in the average.

Key stocks advanced from fractions to around 2 points while some specialties scampered a head 6 or 7 points.

The vigorous upsurge came after only a day and a half of consolidation of the gains made Monday when the market attained its previous '37 top. Market analysts had looked for a longer period of rest before a renewed assault on the historic peak of April 1956.

Some commented that it looked as if investors with plenty of cash to spare were afraid of missing the ride to the top. The latest pronouncements on the business outlook have been optimistic and there was plenty of talk about "inflation psychology."

"Although prices were mixed at the opening, chemicals, some oils and selected issues showed advances. Rails picked up strength by mid-day the steel were Motors and other industrials came along.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1.50 to $183.30, a new high for the year, while the industrials advanced $2.30 to another historic high, the rails rose $2.20 and the utilities were up 10 cents. The all-time high of the AP 60-stock average is $191.30 reached April 6, 1956.

Volume totaled 2,880,000 shares compared with 2,450,000 Tuesday and was the highest since 3,050,000 shares changed hands June 10.

On the American Stock Exchange the trend was higher. Volume totaled 1,170,000 shares compared with 900,000 Tuesday.

The indicated corn crop is less than 75 per cent as large as the record 1956 crop and 10 per cent smaller than the 1946-55 average. The expected yield of 52 bushels an acre is 16 bushels below last year.

Growers are expected to harvest 8,300,000 acres of corn compared with 8,800,000 last year, the department said.

The reduction in crop prospects was attributed to the heavy spring and early summer rains which delayed planting and in some cases washed out seedlings. The department placed the soybean harvest for beans at a record 5,100,000 acres, up 8 per cent over last year and helping to offset much of the reduction corn acreage.

A wheat crop of 43 million bushels was indicated, compared with 59 million last year. The current yield estimate of 25 bushels an acre is 12 bushels smaller than the all-time high yield in 1956.

The oats crop at 125 million bushels is 13 per cent smaller than 1956 and 14 per cent below average. Although growers planned a substantial cut in acreage this year, the departments said the decline was accentuated by unfavorable seeding weather, particularly in southern Illinois.

Oats is expected to hit 45 bushels an acre, down two bushels from a year ago. The hay crop was estimated at 4,700,000 tons as against 5 million tons last year.

of the largest hydroelectric stations in the Soviet Union. The installation was put into operation a few years ago.

Malenkov was made premier after the death of Stalin in 1953. Two years later he was deposed by party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev and given the direction of all the nation's electric power stations with the rank of minister.

Now he goes to a job in a town four miles from the closest rail station.

WASHINGTON (U-P) — American officials said Wednesday Georgi Malenkov's new job means he has escaped with his neck—but to political oblivion.

These officials commented in reaction to word from Moscow that Malenkov, deposed last week along with other top Soviet leaders, had been appointed manager of an isolated electric power station 1,800 miles from Moscow.

The officials said it seemed apparent that neither Malenkov nor the others would be subjected to the kind of blood purge reminiscent of Russia in the 1930's.

Officials noted that Malenkov apparently still retained his membership in the Communist party. It was not clear whether his exile would be the extent of his punishment or whether he might still be thrown out of the party.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—The Standardbred Owners Association's walkout on Yonkers Raceway is perhaps the most serious break between horsemen and track management in history.

It could have nation-wide repercussions.

Trotting came off dusty afternoon fair grounds and Goshen-type tracks to become big business because of night gambling. There are tracks such as Yonkers throughout the country. The present problem could spread quickly and easily.

Tracks were cut to a half mile instead of a mile and heats were done away with to give the players more action. Tracks with extended meetings mushroomed throughout the country.

Spurred by unprecedented mutual handle and lush dividends, men who didn't know a pacer from a pinto bought stock in new plants and commenced to run them.

This worked fine in several spots, but with competition in more recent years some questionable things bobbed up. Frank Costello was tied up in a track. There was a stock scandal and a labor racketeer murder. There was an investigation in New York, where the governor deemed it necessary to appoint a former police commissioner as a czar.

Now Gov. Averell Harriman has James M. Landis, formerly the dean of Harvard Law School, probing charges and countercharges lunging between the United States Trotting Association and the State Harness Racing Commission. President L. B. Sheppard of the USTA repeats that recommendations of the Moreland Commission, which made the original investigation, have not been carried out to the extent of removing undesirable from the management and large ownership of Yonkers and Roosevelt Raceways and Batavia Downs, all in New York.

All this revolves around what could be interpreted as a strictly local squabble between horsemen and Yonkers Raceway, which last year was reported to have shown a bigger profit than any other track in the United States, running horse or gaited.

The Standardbred Owners Association's split with Yonkers started when the men who make the trotters trot asked that their share of the track's from 4 to 10 per cent of the betting be raised from 35 to 45 per cent. There was a long list of grievances running from unsatisfactory living conditions for groomers to no two-year-old racing.

But the Tananbaum brothers—Martin and Al—who came out of the garment industry to take over Yonkers Raceway, wouldn't listen to any proposition that called for more than 35 per cent of the handle. They took famous owners and trainers to court as the superior horses were shipped elsewhere.

A remark by President Marty Tananbaum didn't help the situation any.

"I don't think horsemen ever contributed anything to harness racing," he said.

Tananbaum seemed to figure that all his open air gambling casino on the Yonkers hilltop needed was the lights and the machines.

When those record 30,000 crowds and $2 million nights started to disappear, Marty Tananbaum for the first time was wondering what to use for horses.

Stan Musial Says He Has Played His Last Doubleheader Of '37

By JOE REICHLER

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Stan Musial, the National League's iron man, said Wednesday he has played his last doubleheader of the 1937 season.

The great St. Louis Cardinal star, with the full approval of Manager Fred Hutchinson, has decided it would be best for him as well as his team if he sat out the second games of twin bills for the remainder of the season.

"I have reached the point where playing two nine-inning games in one day takes too much out of me," Stan said a little sadly. "I find that after playing a double header I'm no good for the next two days. I'm sluggish, slow and tired and of little use to the club."

"Consequently, Hutch and I agreed that hereafter I'll play only in one of the games of double headers. I think that in that way I not only would prolong my career but I could be much more useful to the club."

Musial, who will be 37 next November, is in his 16th season with the Cardinals. He hasn't missed a game since the final day of the 1932 season. During that stretch he has played in 861 consecutive games to supplant Gus Suhr, former Pittsburgh first baseman as the National League's most durable player. The immortal Lou Gehrig's major league mark of 2,130 consecutive games is far beyond Stan's reach.

Although he still is battling a nagging cold, Musial has shown obvious signs of fatigue in recent days. The steady diet of night games, followed by day games and doubleheaders has caused his average to shrink some 30 points in the last month.

With 2,885 hits to his collection, Musial still needs 115 to reach his 3,000 hit goal. He thinks he's a cinch to achieve that goal at an early date next season, but he plans to continue playing long after that. By limiting himself to one game a day, with occasional rests, he believes he can play at least through 1939.

"It has been my intention to retire after I had reached the 3,000 hit goal," he said. "That meant after next season. I'll be 37 then but it will be a young 37. Honestly, with the exception of the days when I play doubleheaders, I feel as young and as frisky as I did five years ago."

"Because of this I have changed my mind. I'm going to continue playing as long as I can keep on hitting .300 and help the club. I think I'll have no trouble doing that for at least two more years after this one."

Musial already owns the National League record for the most extra base hits with 1,133. Is second to Mel Ott in home runs with 372. In runs batted in with 1,536 and in total bases with 4,924. His 500 two-base hits ranks him third to Honus Wagner and Paul Waner and he is among the all-time leaders in runs scored as well as total hits.

The Long Island Aggies of Farmingdale, N. Y., won the Knickerbocker Conference baseball race days. The steady diet of night games, followed by day games and doubleheaders has caused his

BITING RETORT

VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—An attorney here, William Selby, recently was discussing remarks of judges that had been held to be prejudicial when appeals were taken.

He recalled that one Los Angeles judge was noted for his biting remarks. On one occasion in this jurist's courtroom a jury reported that it was split 11-1 and would resume deliberations after the dinner hour.

Attorney Selby recalled that the judge said: "Balliff, take this jury out and buy them 11 dinners and one bale of hay."

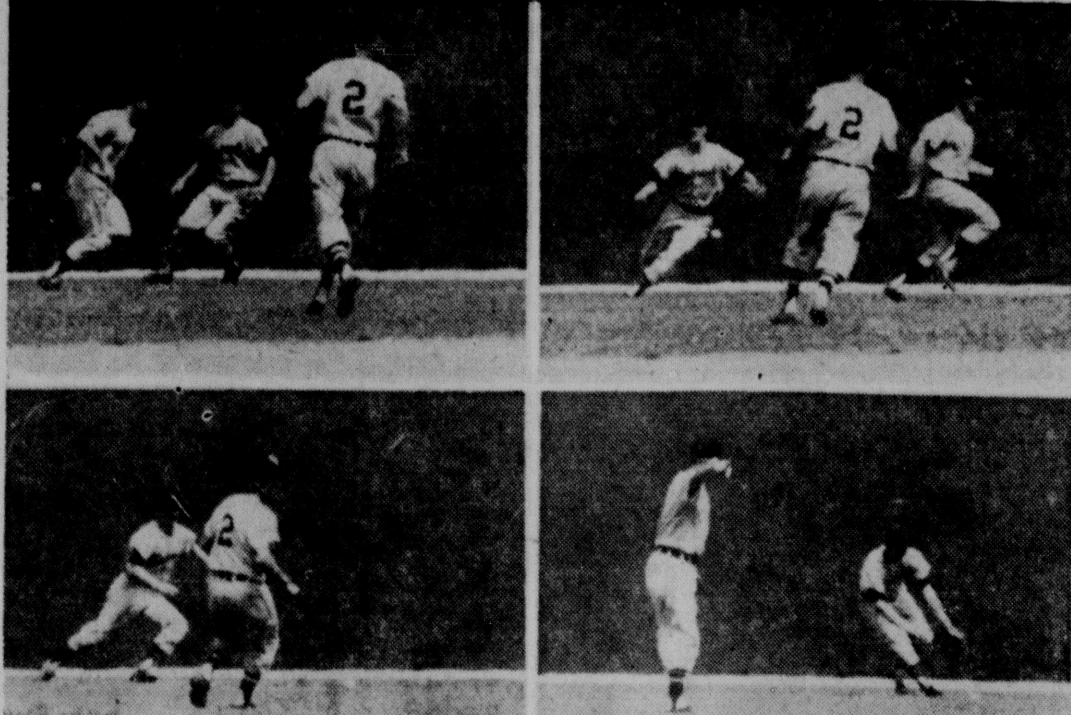

In a subsequent appeal this remark was held to be prejudicial and the verdict reversed.

Eddie Mathews got the Braves off to a two-run lead in the first inning with his 18th homer of the season after a single by Red Schoendienst.

The last three rounds of the nationally televised scrap in Chicago Stadium were filled with violence as each fighter landed staggering rights.

In the seventh, Vaughn of Los Angeles, nicked Hernandez with a sharp right, followed with a left hook and then unleashed a flurry of blows that finally toppled Hernandez to his knees. He got up at the count of two but was dazed and Referee Frank Sikora stopped it.

Hernandez weighed 159, giving up 2 1/4 pounds to his taller foe.

Sports Trail

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—So we have another battle of the ages coming up.

Archie Moore, a shy 40, meaning, he is shy three years of the 43 his mother claims he is—will defend his light heavyweight title against a fighter about half his age in Los Angeles Sept. 11.

Tony Anthony is a buoyant boy of 22 who was just beginning to hoist himself in his crib when Archie was engaging in his first recorded pro bout.

If Moore is no better than he was against Floyd Patterson, and Anthony is as good as he was against Chuck Spieser, youth will be served.

Against Patterson, Archie was a blubbery, wheezing caricature of the man who floored Rocky Marciano. Anthony was a finished craftsman in whipping Spieser.

Tony is said to have overcome a tendency to roll out like a red carpet when hit sternly on the chin, and it did seem he took some pretty good punches from Spieser with no visible effect. Moore still can punch, so we'll find out if Tony's jaw has been reinforced.

Every so often when we feel ourselves getting edgy and things aren't going too smoothly we dig out Satchel Paige's set of rules for happy living and read it over. In case you're forgotten, here they are:

1—Avoid fried meats, which are angry up the blood.

2—If your stomach disputes you lie down and pacify it with cool thoughts.

3—Keep the juices flowing by jangling around gently as you move.

4—Go very lightly on the vices, such as carrying on in society.

5—Avoid running at all times.

6—Don't look back. Something may be gaining on you.

Inasmuch as Satchel still is pitching good baseball at Miami at the age of 120 or so, maybe his personal creed makes sense.

Favored Father And Son Advance In Tennis Meet

CHICAGO (AP)—Top-seeded Hugh Lynch Jr., and son Hugh III of Washington, D. C., Wednesday advanced to the quarterfinals of the National Father and Son Doubles Tennis Tournament.

After drawing a first-round bye, the Lynches scored a 6-1, 6-1 victory over Joseph Bleckinger and his son, Chuck, of Oshkosh, Wis.

The tournament runs through Sunday with a field of 20 pairs.

Oliver, Ransom Share Canadian Open Golf Lead

KITCHENER, Ont. (AP)—Ed (Porky) Oliver, Henry Ransom shared the first round lead in the $25,000 Canadian Open golf tournament Wednesday with three under par 68s.

They held a one stroke margin over Mike Souchak of Grossingers, N. Y.; Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill.; Doug Ford and Mike Fitchell, both of Mahopac, N. Y.

Oliver, the 41-year-old Massachusetts man who has made almost a career out of finishing second, clipped three strokes off par on the front nine and was steady with nine pars coming home.

Ransom, a 46-year-old Texas cattle rancher who plays out of St. Andrews, Ill., collected five birdies and two bogies.

Eight golfers including Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., and Gertrude Kesselring of Toronto, were bunched two strokes off the pace at 70.

Two Recent Meetings Helped Put Yankees, Cardinals In 1st Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two meetings, one in February and the other six weeks ago, have been the key factors in putting the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals at the head of the major league pennant races.

But will the same pattern be followed in the second half of the season and result in the first World Series between these clubs since 1943?

Meeting No. 1 resulted in the 13-player transaction Feb. 19 that sent pitchers Bobby Shantz and Art Ditmar from Kansas City to the Yanks.

At the close of last season, Shantz and Ditmar had a combined record of 14 victories and 29 defeats (Bobby 2-7 and Art 12-22). Their aggregate mark for the Yanks now is 14-2 (Shantz 9-1 and Ditmar 5-1).

Since Whitey Ford was out for most of the initial half of the campaign with a sore shoulder and Don Larsen and Bob Turley were slow in getting started, the Yanks likely would be trailing instead of 2 1/2 lengths ahead of the second-place Chicago White Sox if they had not come up with the mammoth trade.

Meeting No. 2 involved St. Louis Manager Freddie Hutchinson and top Cardinal officials. With the team in fifth place, seven games off the pace, it was decided that Hutch go with his younger players.

So, rookie Eddie Kasko was given the third base job, third sacker Ken Boyer was shifted to centerfield and Joe Cunningham, who had been behind Stan Musial at first base, moved into the right field post.

The Cards got excellent pitching from bonus baby Von McDaniel (4-0), Larry Jackson (10-4), Sam Jones (6-3), Willard Schmidt (7-1) and Lin McCandless (5-4). The blend boosted the club into first place by 2 1/2 games.

St. Louis kicks off the second half of its campaign Thursday, facing the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds. In the only other afternoon encounter, the Boston Red Sox are at Detroit.

The Yankees couldn't have selected a better opponent than Kansas City to start the defense of their lead. Casey Stengel's men have whipped the Athletics 11 times in 1937 without a setback. In other night games, Washington is at Chicago and Baltimore at Cleveland in the American League and Cincinnati at Brooklyn, Chicago at Philadelphia and Milwaukee at Pittsburgh in the National.

Here's the way the other contenders shape up at this time—games behind in parentheses:

American League
Chicago (2 1/2)—The indefinite loss of slugger Larry Doby will hurt. But the Sox have started to "go go" again, winning their last five in a row. Billy Pierce (12-6) has won two in a row after four successive defeats. Jack Harshman (7-3) also has captured two straight and Jim Wilson (9-5) hasn't been troubled by the hot weather as had been predicted.

Off their first half showing, the Red Sox, Indians and Tigers, who had been given a chance by some experts, don't figure to make a run for the pennant. Boston trails New York by 10 games, Cleveland by 12 and Detroit by 12 1/2.

Senators' Yost Sidelined With Groin Injury

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Veteran third baseman Eddie Yost of the Washington Senators acknowledged Wednesday a groin injury will keep him out of action "for a long time."

The word from Yost added a new problem to the Senators' ordinary worries as a last-place club. Yost, out for three weeks, appeared as a pinch hitter

Governors Differ On Giving Public Information

CHICAGO, (U) — A survey of state governors indicates some disagreement among them as to how much they have the right to know, as a member of the public, about the public's business.

Specific endorsement of open government by 24 governors was reported by a Committee on Advancement of Freedom of Information sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity.

The committee, headed by V. M. Newton Jr. of the Tampa (Fla.) Tribune, said that in addition to unreserved endorsement of the principle of open government by 24 governors, "13 others go on record as generally endorsing it."

The committee's report said this attitude is "in direct contrast to the situation in federal government wherein the proceedings of all executive government and much of legislative government are conducted behind locked doors with the press and public barred."

The report quoted six governors who defended the closed executive session as justified in certain phases of government. It said that five declined to express their stands on government secrecy in public.

The committee said it could "only assume that the five governors who chose not to define their policies on open government do not favor it."

Among strong views in favor of open government procedure was that of Gov. George Docking of Kansas, who remarked "after all, the government is the business of the people. They have the right to know everything about what is going on at all times."

Of the governors who favored barring observation by public and press of some phases of government, Gov. A. B. Chandler stressed his Cabinet's closed meetings as "an exception" in generally open state government conduct in Kentucky.

Chandler said, "The absence of reporters encourages the Cabinet officers to speak more frankly about their problems."

The committee report noted that no public expressions were made by Govs. William G. Stratton of Illinois, George Bell Timmerman Jr., of South Carolina, Vernon W. Thomson of Wisconsin, Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa and Edward L. Mcchem of New Mexico.

'NEIGHBORHOOD TOUGHS' BRING END TO FREE MEALS

CHICAGO, (U) — A restaurant owner who estimated he has given away 14,000 meals since 1943 has ended the philanthropy.

Free meals for the hungry and broke were a trademark of Nate Schulman's restaurant on the West Side. This policy was advertised in a sign that hung in the window of the restaurant, the Ogden Huddle.

It read: "If you are hungry and have no money, come in and we'll feed you—free."

But Schulman took down the sign. He said he could tell in two words why the policy had to be changed: "Neighborhood toughs."

"The neighborhood is changing," Schulman said. "The kids have been giving me a lot of trouble. They come in five or six at a time and say they want to eat off the sign."

"I tell them they're minors and that they'll have to bring their folks. They don't and they cause a lot of noise and embarrassment."

Schulman, 54, has filled the vacant space in his window with a new sign. It reads: "If you don't eat here we'll both starve."

SCIENTISTS PRODUCE NEW ELEMENT

CHICAGO, (U) — An international research team announced Tuesday they produced the heaviest element yet discovered by bombarding another synthetic element, curium, with carbon ions.

Scientists from the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission's Argonne National Laboratory, the atomic energy research establishment at Harwell, England, and the Nobel Institute for Physics in Stockholm collaborated in the work.

The new element has the atomic number 102. It is a solid and is unstable, losing half its radioactivity in 10 to 12 minutes. The scientists have proposed that it be named Nobelium after the Nobel Institute.

The experiments were carried out successfully on the Nobel Institute's cyclotron in March and the discovery was confirmed by chemical analysis in June. Argonne supplied the rare isotope of curium or element 96 and Harwell the rare isotope of carbon—positively charged carbon 13.

Nobelium is the 10th synthetic element produced in the atomic age. All are heavier than uranium which is the heaviest naturally occurring element.

CHICAGO, (P)—The National Labor Relations Board Wednesday ordered two J. I. Case Co. plants to furnish company files on piece work requested by a union.

The NLRB opinion, written by trial examiner Lloyd Buchanan, upheld the union's right to such records.

The opinion ordered the big farm equipment company to "cease and desist" from "refusing to furnish to the union or its agents or representatives information and data concerning time studies."

Quiz Harvard Butcher On Gas Station Holdup

DETROIT (P)—A Harvard, Ill. packing house butcher was detained here Tuesday for questioning in a recent gasoline station holdup in McHenry, Ill., a town near Harvard.

Police identified the man as Emil Osterman, 24, who came to this country in 1952 from Austria. He was picked up when he returned to the United States from Canada.

Detective Jack Shoemaker said Osterman was seized at the U. S. Customs office at the Detroit end of the Detroit-Windsor tunnel. He stopped at the office to reclaim a pistol he had left there when he crossed over into Canada Sunday night.

Shoemaker said Osterman also would be questioned in a recent shooting and kidnapping in Burlington, Wis.

HEAT PROVES TOO MUCH FOR MAIL CARRIER

CHICAGO (P)—The mail service prides itself on delivering the mail despite rain, sleet or hail. None of these things stopped one of its employees, substitute carrier James Williams, 19, but heat did.

Williams, arraigned before the U. S. commissioner Wednesday, admitted that for two days he delivered all the mail for his route in suburban Maywood to a quarry.

He dumped the two sacks into the quarry last Saturday and Monday, he said, because he got hot and the bags were heavy.

Residents complained about failing to receive mail and postal inspectors made an investigation leading to Williams' arrest.

A hearing on a charge of unlawful delivery of the mails was set for July 17.

To Seek Return Of Zlatovskis On Spying Charge

WASHINGTON, (P)—Asst. U. S. Atty. Gen. William F. Tompkins said Wednesday night he will fly to Paris next week to seek the return of George and Jane Zlatovskis, indicted in New York on charges of spying for Russia.

Tompkins said he hopes to have discussions with "appropriate French authorities" in an effort to find a way "to bring them back for trial."

Zlatovskis, Russian-born former lieutenant in U. S. Army intelligence, claims he and his wife have been given asylum in France. But, in Paris Wednesday official sources said there is no chance France would grant them asylum.

It was not clear, however, whether the French government would take measures to deport the couple, or how it might be done.

U. S. officials have said the French government is under no obligation to extradite the couple under existing treaties because they do not provide for extradition for political offenses.

The Zlatovskis' case had repercussions Wednesday in Congress, where Sen. Hruska (R-Neb.) and Rep. Walter (D-Pa.) cited it as an example of why the U. S. should not loosen passport controls.

In separate statements, they referred to court action two years ago through which Mrs. Zlatovskis finally obtained a passport, which the State Department had refused.

Mrs. Zlatovskis is in Paris on the disputed passport. Her husband went to Paris in 1949 to study under the GI bill of rights and automatically was granted a residence permit which is still valid, the Interior Ministry in Paris said.

According to reports, the accident occurred when Baker dozed momentarily at the wheel of his car and his vehicle edged over the center line into the wrong lane and into the path of Hansen's vehicle.

Both cars were badly damaged and Baker who had escaped with minor cuts and bruises, flagged down a passing motorist who brought him and Hansen to the Jersey Community hospital where both were given emergency treatment and Hansen later removed by Guber ambulance to the DePaul hospital in St. Louis.

When a boy, Hansen lost part of his left forearm in a corn picker accident and it was the same arm which was injured in the accident of Monday morning.

NEW ORLEANS, (P)—A redhead haled a cab Thursday for herself and 14 bricks.

While the driver, August C. Minure, 29, waited, Mrs. Cole picked up the bricks and started tossing them at the glass windows of Miss Phillips' home. Police say she threw nine before they arrived. Seven window panes were smashed.

Mrs. Cole explained to police that her estranged husband, Clarence Cole, was going to visit Miss Phillips.
